

Langley March and April 1905

5 March 1905

(above) A lovely little postcard sketch of a house in Ditton Park, Langley Berkshire – now part of Slough. Lindsay said to Mildred: 'I shall be up this evening. Thanks for yours'.

17 April 1905

(below) Ditton, Langley, Bucks (now Berkshire). This delightful watercolour was sent through the post to Mildred. 'This is Mr Mayo's place at Ditton. Back of house from orchard'.

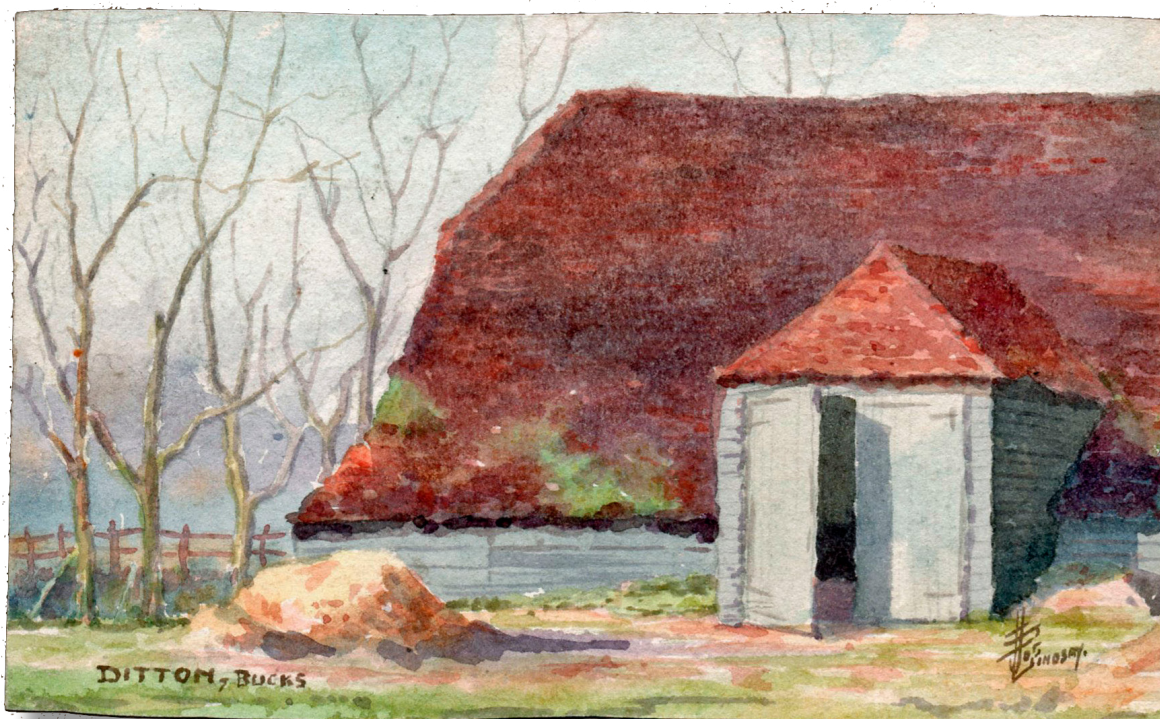

1905

19 April 1905

(above) Morley's Cottage, Ditton, Langley, Bucks (now Berkshire). Another watercolour that somehow passed through the post to Mildred. 'Many thanks for yours don't forget Thursday at all costs'.

1905 unknown date

(above) Barn in Ditton, Langley, Bucks (now Berkshire). Another signed watercolour found on a scrap of paper in the archive. No message attached.

Ditchling April and May 1905

17 April 1905

(above) Old House, Ditchling, East Sussex. Lindsay tells Mildred: 'We are just leaving here, Grand day. AYL (Always Your Loving)'. I wonder who the 'We' refers to?

April 1905

(below) West Street, Ditchling, East Sussex. A view of the Old House from the other direction.

1905

17 May 1905 (above) House with outside steps in West Street, Ditchling, East Sussex. Compare this sketch with the postcard on the opposite page.

1905

17 May 1905 (above and below) Another Old House in Ditchling, East Sussex. John Lindsay has followed closely the postcard above.

1905

17 May 1905

(above and below) Centre of Ditchling, East Sussex. The house above is on the corner at the crossroads behind the horse-drawn cart.

Bramber, Penshurst June 1905

8 June 1905 (above) St Mary's, Bramber, West Sussex. A restored pilgrim Inn dating from 1470, this half-timbered house has some unique painted and decorated rooms dating from Tudor times.

23 June 1905 (below) Leicester Square, Penshurst, Kent. The Church House is to be seen in the square on the left as you face the church. One of possibly only two still left standing in England.

23 June 1905 (above) Lych-gate, Penshurst, Kent. The lych-gate at the entrance to the cemetery of the parish church of St John the Baptist. Leicester Square (see photo to the left), a collection of 15th and 16th century half-timbered houses, is adjacent to the church.

11 May 1905 (below) Bramber, West Sussex. Lindsay tells Mildred 'Having a great time. Sending you a letter tonight'.
